There is no doubt that parents value what Scouting does for their children. Parents say Scouting gives their children more confidence, responsibility, a broader set of friends, a chance to pursue things they might not get to do otherwise, adventure and an extended family.

'They have fun and learn discipline too. It's a good combination.'

'It's not just factual; they learn social skills and about interacting. They have to remember things to bring the following week so they have to take a bit of responsibility for their own stuff!' Many parents feel that their child attending Scouts gives them another reason to be proud of their achievements.

Typical activities include: Hikes, Climbing, Archery, Sleepovers, Family Camps, Days out, Cooking, Art and crafts, Singing, Annual County events such as the Beaver Picnic in June and the Panto at Xmas, Environmental activities and lots more.

The programme is varied using zones such as: Community, Fitness, Creative, Global, Outdoors and Adventure, Beliefs and Attitudes using a variety of methods including going on visits, meeting people, playing games, making things, chatting, listening to stories and using the outdoors. The children have an input and design parts of their own programmes for example in January this year they have learnt how to keep fit by Streetdance, how to Skateboard and how to make Graffiti Art.
